FOREWORD

In this the last volume of THE MID-LANDER for the duration, the staff has tried to present a photographic sketch of the activities at Tennessee State College for the past year. When the present becomes obscure may each of you find some link among these pages to bridge the interval of years and bring back to life a memory of the days you have spent in college.

To the STUDENTS

“Cages were made for wise men who believe in bolts and bars, Freedom is for fools who walk with eyes upon the stars.”

Our world today has been made by so-called wise men who believe that they have perfected an ideal place for every person and every race. These men believe in solving the problems at hand and letting the future care for itself; they believe that there are inferior races; they believe in tolerance but never in understanding. They believe in bolts and bars to protect the set world they have tried to establish.

Praise in a democracy should go to those whom these wise men call fools, to those who walk with eyes upon the stars, who look above the petty problems at hand to consider the greater thing which embraces all problems, to those who believe that all men are children of God and have the right to live as such with understanding from all peoples.

In our democracy we should strive through education to awaken the faith of our youth which lies but half asleep in the dawn of their own knowledge. Though they may be called fools because they have the courage to question self-made authority in the face of the danger that they might lose economic and political security; called fools because they love peace so much they would fight for it, they must stand together and know that “Free men set themselves free.”

Oppression lies not in the hand of the oppressor, but in the hearts of the people. If we are to be free, we must realize that our freedom is held not in the hands of our leaders, but in the heart of every man. When the democracies rise above the dictators, we must act according to our knowledge that when our freedom finally loses its fetters then itself must become a fetter to an even greater freedom.

TRAINING SCHOOL

During the four years we, as students, pursue a definite course of study. Those choosing teacher training realize the importance of actual instruction at the Training School. It is here where prospective teachers come in contact with the ever present problems of young people and where they gain an introduction to the progressive methods of teaching by actual experience.

The Training School students obtain a taste of democratic living in both their classrooms and in participation in student government. The practice teachers obtain an understanding of the methods of democratic instruction and student guidance.

Certainly the Training School is a very essential part of the Tennessee State College and an important training center for the teachers of tomorrow.

The Associated Student Body and student government, to some, suggests nothing. To others, those who are less indifferent, it presents a challenge. It is an opportunity for us to gain our first experiences in working together for the betterment of the institution in which we find ourselves. It is definitely a step forward, provided the student body, without taking it for granted, attempts to make it stronger.

There are several obstacles to student government—namely, misunderstanding on the part of some as to its objectives, lack of cooperation, failure to participate in student activities and constant "knocking."

Student government demands an intelligent student body, willing to face problems and arrive at the best possible solution. Only through actual participation may we learn self-discipline, social responsibility, and the privileges of a democracy.

In spite of the fact that student government is handicapped because there is a seemingly overwhelming problem facing the youth of today, we must not permit our interest in a very worth-while setup to wane. This presents a challenge to all student bodies who will follow us—a challenge to preserve the one aspect of democracy we have on the campus.

In spite of the loss of twenty-six men to the armed forces, the Blue Raiders enjoyed their most successful season since 1937. Their record of four wins and one tie against two losses does not fully summarize the spirit, work, and ability that characterized Coaches Midgett and Freeman's Blue Raiders. With both the coaching staff and the vastly-reduced squad knowing that the only hope for a good season was in plenty of work and cooperation, the team began to take shape.

The Raiders opened the season against Memphis State at Memphis. Everyone was in readiness for this game, and the small band of warriors from T. S. C. prevailed, 21-13, in an exciting game.

The Troy, Alabama, game was taken on home ground with the score of 20-0. The work of Bob and Bill Burkett, Charlie Phillips, and the line, en masse, was wonderful.

The following week Camp Forrest fell at the mercy of the red, white, and blue team with the score of 26-7. Everyone saw service in this game, and the play of the reserves was very heartening.

Maryville College came to Murfreesboro with a fine team, but bowed in the mud to the Raiders with a score of 19-13. Phillips, Suddarth, Brooks, Reasonover, the Burketts, and Nesbitt were the outstanding players.

Then came the trip to Tampa which had been looked forward to with much enthusiasm. After a long journey to Tampa, the Raiders fell before the Tampa eleven by the score of 0-13. The heat and Tampa's reserve players were the main differences between the fighting forces. The respect gained by the Tennesseans in Tampa more than balanced the loss, for the Raiders were greatly admired for their praiseworthy action.

Returning home, the Raiders met the Murray Thoroughbreds, and, though running up overwhelming odds in the statistics column, they managed only to get a 14-14 tie. Excellent playing was done by Nesbitt and Martin, with the whole team giving a commendable performance.

At last came November 25 and the homecoming game against T. P. I. On the second play of the game Bob Burkett, Raider "big gum," received a fractured leg and had to leave the field. The Raiders were defeated 7-25, although the score cannot by any means indicate the difference in the teams. It can easily be said that every Raider gave his utmost and that T. P. I., although victorious, knew that they had played the game of their lives.

Of this year's football season it should be said that the work of Coaches Midgett and Freeman, along with the help of Rev. Kellerman and the fighting spirit and ability of the Blue Raiders, gave the school its most successful season in about six years.

Although most of the boys are in the service now, this season should be remembered as their supreme effort to bring the fame and glory that only such a football team can bring.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The purpose of the Women's Athletic Association has always been to develop good sportsmanship, cooperation, and active interest in the sports. This year along with the above purpose, the W. A. A. has been the leader in the new intramural system set up this fall by the two directors of physical education, Miss Tommie Reynolds and Mr. B. B. Gracy, Jr., and the intramural class.

The W. A. A. is the only organization on the campus that allows girls to receive awards in athletics. By participation in any of the sports, and a certain number of points, entitles the student to the special awards, including monograms, sweaters, and medals.

Governing the setup is the council of the W. A. A. officers, and the intramural general manager and team managers, who plan the program, initiate new members, and make the awards.

The major sports for the fall and winter quarters were volleyball, basketball, and tumbling. Under the able leadership of the six intramural managers the double round-robin volleyball tournament was a tie between the Orioles, managed by Evelyn Osborne, and the Pelicans, managed by Pat Hope, until the Orioles took the play-off game and capped the volleyball crown for the 1942 season. Nine All-Stars were chosen from the six teams.

● Women's Intramurals. The women's basketball tournament was scheduled to be run off with one night game and two afternoon games a week for the entire winter quarter. The season ended with another play-off of a tie by the Herons and Cardinals. The Herons, led by Manager Virginia Cummins, bested the Redbirds, managed by Jessie DePriest, 33-37, in a tilt that was nip and tuck from the start.

Tumbling was sponsored by "Willie" Paschall and climaxed by a chapel program March 5. Because of the increased interest in tumbling this year, this sport was promoted from a minor to

1. Greer Williams, boys' general manager 2. Mr. B. B. Geacy, director of boys' intramurals. 3. Seven a major activity. Three tumbling all-stars were chosen from the acrobatic group of eleven.

Outstanding among spring activities are softball, field and track, horseshoes, and tennis. When this book went to press, April 10, softball was underway with the Peheans and Orioles leading in wins.

The high point of the entire program was the spring hike of the week end beginning April 30. A large representation of the W. A. A. enjoyed a couple of days of "ruffing" it at Standing Stone Park. Hike sponsor was Peggye Thompson.

ALL SCHOOL INTRAMURALS

● Men's Intramurals under the guidance of Director B. B. Gracy, Jr., took on an added load this year, because of the single intercollegiate sport, football. The intramural program fitted in with non-competitive sports for the boys' participation.

Touch football began the season and ended with the Cardinals, managed by Royce "Doc" Richards, nosing out Sid Huggins' Pelicans for the title. The all-stars were named by Mr. Gracy and Greer Wiggins, student intramural manager for the boys. The runner-up Pelicans placed three men on the team and the Champs placed two. Two Ravens and one Parakeet made up the eight men who were given five points to their credit in the scoring of the intramural program. The newly organized boys' intramural program is being run on the point system where every sport is to carry the same weight in the accumulation of one individual score.

The winter quarter sport, basketball, came to a close March 3 with the Herons, managed by Laddie Royster, being crowned winners by virtue of their win over the Parakeets, led by Ashton Wood, 54-47. The Herons made a clean sweep of the tourney, winning five games while losing none. All-stars were chosen from the six teams. The Herons placed three men on the Upper Eight List. Two Orioles, one Raven, one Pelican, and one Parakeet made up the all-stars.

Because of the few boys in school during the spring quarter and the increased program of soldier physical training, no formal sports were planned. The boys who were interested in tennis, field and track, and softball ran off a tournament of their own.

Orchestra and Glee Club

Musically inclined students find an outlet for their talents in these clubs. The orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Sanders, and the Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Saunders, provide numerous concerts throughout the year which include classical, semi-classical, and sometimes popular music. The climax of 1943 was the presentation of the opera, "Trial by Jury."
